Hi, I'm Victor! I'm a very frolic little monkey.

I have great agility to play among the trees of the Tanzanian forest, where I live, using my arms, legs and my tail.

My forest friends call me "master of the air"...

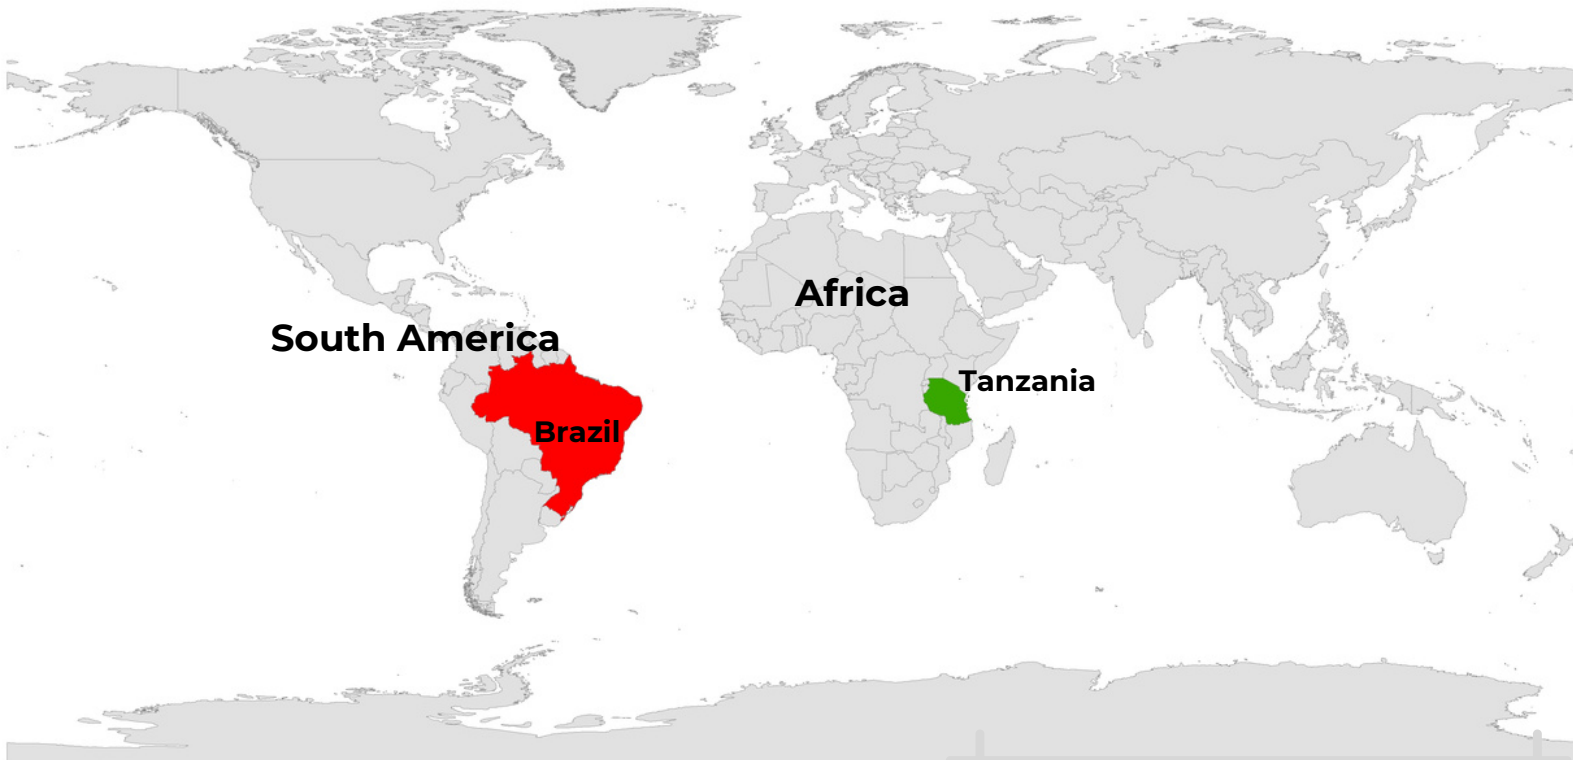

I can't forget to say that I love eating bananas!

Banana is a fruit that brings a lot of energy to children and adults.

The Tanzanian forest, where I live, has imposing trees and guards extensive areas of dangerous animals.

Political world map represents borders of countries and continents.

However, Vítor was so convinced of his ability to perform acrobatics, that he began to take risks with the wild animals of the forest.

He stimulated on the larger and more dangerous animals to catch him in their games.

This gave him more notoriety among his forest friends.

The dream of the little monkeys in the forest, was to be like Vitor, agile, brave and fearless in the face of danger.

Vítor and his friends, made all kinds of provocations to any animal, without worrying about possible consequences.

Vítor's parents warned him about the dangers and told him:

- Son, you shouldn't expose yourself to danger unnecessarily. The chance of something unexpected happening increases greatly!

Victor, didn't want to hear from his parents.

But his father continued to talk.

- Think about it son, you are taking your friends to the same way and many of them may not have the way to develop your skills to escape the dangers.

Vítor's mother also warned him:

- Don't forget, my son, that we are responsible for our friends, think about them too.

Victor replied, upset:

- Mom, let me be happy.

Thus, his parents left that conversation very sad, as they were unable to change the reckless behavior of the monkey Vítor.

Mothers take care of their children with a lot of love and dedication, they must be respected and heard.

The following months were filled with many reckless pranks.

They got very close to the tigers and lions.

Vitor considered himself "the guy" in the forest.

Tigers and lions are very dangerous animals that can bite children and adults.

As the months passed, two very smart lions appeared in Tanzania, coming from another region of Africa. Soon, these two lions were already able to observe far the actions of Vítor and his friends.

The lions took care of the monkeys from afar, without letting them see them.

One day, the hungry lions attracted the pack of monkeys closer.

That afternoon, when the band of monkeys spotted the two lions, they soon came looking for more fun.

A friend of Vítor's, made a risky maneuver and was caught by the tail, with a right kick from one of the lions.

Vítor was scared when he saw his friend.
Instantly, he remembered his parents' words.

However, they managed to escape, despite being injured.

Arriving home with his friends, Victor explained what had happened to his parents and swore never to be reckless again.

Friends and family are very important, for adults and children.

NEVER FAIL TO ACT WITH CAUTION.
